

Overall the website on all three browsers looks very similar but there were some small differences. The colors on safari are a little brighter and more vibrant than on Firefox or Chrome, especially the colors in the photographs. On the contact page on Safari the form boxes have a very light outline and the submit button is much lighter and harder to see than on Firefox or Chrome. The form boxes on Firefox and Chrome look the same and are easy to see.